

The A Cappella Singers

We are a community, all-women chorus representing the Metrowest Boston Area and a member of the Greater Boston Choral Consortium (GBCC), a cooperative association of diverse choral groups in Boston and the surrounding areas. We have been in existence since 1963, and started as a group of mothers; we now represent most towns in the Metrowest Boston area with diversity in age, background and profession, but with the love of singing in common. The original group of unaccompanied singers has grown in size and repertoire and musical direction over the past 47 years, now specializing in music often sung with accompaniment written by and for women. Our repertoire ranges from 13th century to contemporary, sacred to secular, accompanied and unaccompanied.

Our season is from September to May. We present two main concerts a year in December and May and have other performances during the season at area nursing homes.

We are a 501(c)3, non-profit group and support ourselves through our yearly ad drive and donations. All donations are fully tax-deductible.
